

2019A F=ma Exam: Problem 6

Kevin S. Huang

Letting the x -axis lie along the plane, we have a bouncing ball undergoing uniform acceleration in the horizontal and vertical directions.

The time between each collision depends only on the motion in the vertical direction. Since the collision is elastic, the time interval remains the same. The distance between each collision increases due to acceleration in the horizontal direction. Thus, the answer is $\boxed{A}$.